

Captain Juan Carlos Lozano

Juan Carlos Lozano is the Executive Vice President Europe of IFALPA (International Federation of Airline Pilots' Associations) as well as the Vice President of the European Cockpit Association (ECA).

He is an Airline Transport Pilot currently flying for Iberia Airlines as an Airbus A320 Captain. With more than 12,000 flight hours, Juan Carlos has experience in cargo, business jets and airline operations.

He is an IFALPA Accredited Aircraft Accident Investigator and holds a Certificate in Aviation Safety & Security (University of Southern California) and a Certificate in Aviation Management (IATA-Stanford University)

Between 2011 and 2016 he became member of the ICAO Safety Management Panel (SMP). This panel was assigned the task of developing of the new ICAO Annex 19th and related guidance material. He was also advisor to the IFALPA Representative at the ICAO Safety Information Protection Task Force (SIPTF).

He has held the positions of Technical Director, International Affairs Director and IFALPA Director at the Spanish Airline Pilots' Association (SEPLA).

He is 55 and lives in Madrid (Spain) with his wife and son.